Get involved in the DataCite Community!

Patricia Cruse

Blog post published May 18, 2016 in DataCite Blog - DataCite
https://doi.org/10.5438/mrr6-mf3q

Abstract

DataCite is a community driven organization, and we encourage involvement from people that share our data sharing vision. Over the past year, DataCite has seen a tremendous amount of growth and uptake in the use of DataCite DOIs.

Keywords

Information Systems (Subfield)

Recommended citation

Cruse, P. (2016, May 18). Get involved in the DataCite Community!. DataCite Blog - DataCite. https://doi.org/10.5438/mrr6-mf3q

Copyright

Copyright © Patricia Cruse 2016. Distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

DataCite is a community driven organization, and we encourage involvement from people that share our data sharing vision. Over the past year, DataCite has seen a tremendous amount of growth and uptake in the use of DataCite DOIs.

To help guide and support our growth and ongoing development, DataCite is forming three new Steering Groups (Sustainability and Business, Services and Technology, and Community and Enagement). Our Steering Groups will provide a venue for open participation by community members and will help us set priorities and identify strategies related to sustainability planning, services, and outreach.

We are seeking recommendations from the community for Steering Group members. Community participation will help us better understand your needs and implement quality services.

If you are interested in participating in our Steering Groups, please contact patricia.cruse@datacite.org

> Bike keeps family in stitches
> Bike keeps family in stitches

The post Get involved in the DataCite Community! appeared first on DataCite.